

Family Impact Testimony

"According to grandma, when a child is misbehaving they need one of three things. A belt, a shoe, or a switch. Well, long gone is grandma's theory, and its replacement is just as effective. Triple P (Positive Parenting Program) is a proven set of theories that redirects a child to positive behaviors. Children naturally want to please us; they just do not know how. Tonya explains them in such a way that the average parent can use them in everyday situations.

I have learned a ton of new innovative ways to manage bad behaviors, in not only children, but in adults too! Descriptive praise works across the board; everyone likes to be praised.

I have a spaghetti recipe that I make, and when my son says 'good job dad, tastes great' makes me feel like a million bucks. We are learning together the desire to be good. The willingness to learn will carry my little family a long way. This has been a great experience and learning opportunity. So remember, get rid of the switch 'use Triple P and save a tree'."
